

MODEL CONDITIONS FOR THE HOLDING OF 'SKINS' EVENTS

1. INTRODUCTION

- 1.1. In recent years the concept of 'Skins' events has been introduced into swimming competitions held in England under ASA Swimming Rules. This has led to some misunderstanding as, depending upon the format some 'Skins' events by their nature contravene ASA Swimming Rules.
- 1.2. Whilst there are many variations a 'Skins' event is generally a continuous competition whereby competitors race against themselves over a number of rounds, each starting after a fixed time from the start of the previous round. A swimmer, (generally the slowest in a race) or swimmers being eliminated in each round, until an eventual winner is found. The number of available lanes in the pool normally governs the number of competitors.
- 1.3. A popular format being, for example, the contest involving races starting at 3 minute intervals, a warning signal (whistle) given at 2 minute 50 seconds and the start signal being given at 3 minutes – no voice commands given. This clearly contravenes the ASA Swimming Rules regarding the Start of a race.
- 1.4. Often separate competitions for female and male competitors are held concurrently resulting in a race starting in the pool every 1 minute 30 seconds in the case of 3 minute starts for both male and female competition.
- 1.5. The 'Skins' concept provides for exciting competition and is growing in its use throughout the Country. Due to the format, in most cases as described, the competitions sit outside ASA Swimming Rules, it is necessary therefore to provide guidance to event Promoters in order to ensure clarity and fairness to all concerned in running such competitions.
- 1.6. Such guidance will not inhibit the imagination of those hosting the 'Skins' event. It will provide a structure whereby the rules of an individual competition will be clear to all persons involved either as a competitor or official.
- 1.7. The guidance that follows is in the format of conditions which have to be considered, together with areas for consideration and potential options. The overriding requirement is that all matters relating to the running of a competition are clear and known to all parties before entries are considered. It is imperative that the Promoter Conditions are clear and concise. The alternative is that Promoters will find themselves exposed to grounds for a Protest which could have been avoided if sufficient consideration had been given to the prevailing conditions prior to advertising the competition.
- 1.8. It is accepted that conditions are unlikely to cover all eventualities, however if the following guidance is considered the potential for misunderstanding will be reduced.
- 1.9. A set of sample Promoters Conditions have been included with this paper as an indication as to the range of areas which need to be considered and covered in order to ensure that all parties are aware of the nature of the competition.
